

ServSafe-Food Handlers Certification

California state law requires the Food Protection Manager Certification course for every type of restaurant from Mom-and-Pops to Cafeterias to Franchises. Successful completion of this course meets the requirements of California Health & Safety code 113716. The certification is valid for five years, after which holders must take the exam and pass with a 75 percent or better to renew their certification. In this comprehensive 8-hour class, students review the basics of food safety and sanitation, as well as how to protect your guest against food-borne illness. The topics covered mirror the sections in the ServSafe textbook, which is required for this class. The class is concluded with an examination that is then sent to the National Restaurant Association in Chicago for grading. It takes 2-3 weeks to get the results back from the National Restaurant Association. If the exam is passed, a certificate is mailed to the student. Cost of class is $80 and does not include textbook fees. Student must have their book before class date. Books can be purchase from your local campus bookstore or you may order it from the National Restaurant Association; go to www.calrest.org. Please register early for your class, limited seating only. Students must bring Photo ID and two sharpened #2 pencils.
